- On the opening page, it would be nice to see a little introduction. "In this section, you will learn..." This tells me that I'm going to move in to a lesson that is something other than a YouTube video.
- I like the real-world example. Especially the feedback. The look and feel is nice.
- Great transition of what was and what is happening now.
- Instructions for the box "write your response below and then click the arrow to see if you were correct."
- You explain the need to learn. Great!
- You gave the instructions on the picture activity. I love this activity. Great job!
- Do you want to have the users view all of the content for the letters at once? If not, consider a carousel to prevent scrolling down the page.
- How did you get survey pop-ups? :D I need theses in my pages.
- Intro for the "Answer the following questions". Ex: Let's see how much you remember. (And then in your small, basic font) "Answer the following questions to help you apply the standard.") This will help for consistency.

Lizz:

- Would be nice to have the index thing say index. I sort of thought I had to click down there to move on because the other button was the submit the quiz button.
- Would be nice to know what a non-normal activity would be considered on this little question (are there any?)
- Would have been nice if you could think of an acronym for the letter-related criteria.. Like FARBIE or BARFIE hahaha
- On the letters part when it starts quizzing you might say "Answer the following questions for each criterion/letter to help you apply the "Reasonable & PRudent Parenting" standard
- Video on the first one (that I wasn't supposed to do) needs to be sized/scalable for mobile :)

- Couldn't remember ARBEFI items when he got to the Scenario. State the acronym ARBEFI in the text -- and say what they all stand for. Something like, "We call these six standards ARBEFI. They stand for Age, Risk, Behavior, Emotional Growth, Family, and Best Interest."
- Change the acronym to BAREFI to remember it better??
- Scenario 1, first question (AGE): Clicked A- saw AGE info but couldn't figure out how to continue. Tried clicking green box but nothing happened. On third try, noticed he could scroll down to click R.

- Needs Back button! Throughout the module, but especially in the Scenario questions.
 - In the Age questions, want button to view the ARBEFI again but

- Under the reasonable and prudent standard section, possibly make the individual letters larger?
- Possibly make the screen align top when submitting question. I had to scroll to find the top after each submission.
- I really like the design. Nice clean font and color.
- I like the little emojis.
- I didn't have any trouble with the learning content. Seemed straightforward to me.
- I liked the feedback on the questions.
- It broke, but Clay knows why.
- Good job!
